MAKES CHOICE THAT MAY DECIDE FATE

Beattie in Dramatic Scene Dis-cards Four Jurymen.

Chesterfield C. H., Va., Aug. 24.—There came a moment when a white-faced young man with his lips between his teeth stood alone before fatal chance and played the gambler's game. He was Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., on trial for wife murder, and the game he played was that of trying to pick from a row of 16 faces of tentative jurymen four in which there might lurk the shadow of a menace to him.

During the two days the judge and his counsel had gone over the venires listening to the qualifications of the farmers of Chesterfield to sit in judgment on the young man's life. Very carefully they had winnowed out 16 men who were to sit for a final elimination to the jury number of 12.

Beattie, his lawyers and his father retired to a little jury room with the list of the 16 and consulted for 15 minutes. They came back. All sat down but the young prisoner, who stood with whitened knuckles braced on the table in front of him and looked from face to face in the jury box across the aisle. Minutes passed and there was absolute silence in the little courtroom. Still his eyes passed slowly from face to face and the muscles of his jaw twitched and twitched.

All of a sudden his shoulders went back with a quick jerk of decision. He sat down and with a pencil struck off four of the names on the list. The clerk read the names of the four jurors thus eliminated.

Three Killed In Fire

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 24.—Three dead, two others fatally hurt and damages amounting to $200,000 is the toll of a fire of mysterious origin here, which partially destroyed the $250,000 Chancellor hotel and threatened for a time to spread to nearby buildings.

Rodney J. Deigle Declares He Has Nothing to Sell

Convicted Bribe Broker Ready For Prison Sentence.

Columbus, O., Aug. 24.—In a signed statement Rodney J. Diegel, sergeant-at-arms of the Ohio senate and convicted go-between in legislative bribery deals, says:

"Having no knowledge of wrongdoing on the part of any of the members or myself, I have nothing to confess. I am still ready to receive sentence from the court at any time."

Diegel's statement was given out at the office of his attorneys, Belcher & Connor, Con J. Mattern of Dayton, another of Diegel's attorneys, was present when the statement was given out.

"If Diegel does not present us with a statement that satisfies us that he has told all he knows concerning legislative bribery, and the full truth, too, we shall recommend no clemency for him when he is brought before Judge Kinkead for sentence," said Attorney General Hogan.

"It was Diegel who solicited us for clemency," continued Hogan. "We don't care what course he takes in the matter now."

"John Egan of Dayton, one of Diegel's attorneys, came to us some time ago and said Diegel was willing to make a partial confession, but that he would insist on protecting certain persons. We refused to consider such a proposition."

COLUMBUS CONVENTION ENDS

American Federation of Catholic Societies at Closing Business Session Select Louisville For Next Meeting Place—Banquet Attended by 1,000 Delegates and Guests Was One of Most Brilliant Affairs Ever Held in Ohio's Capital.

Columbus, O., Aug. 24.—The national convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies came to a close with a banquet in Memorial hall, at which covers were laid for 1,000 persons.

The banquet was one of the largest and most notable of its kind in the history of the state. James T. Carroll of the Catholic Columbian of Columbus was toastmaster, and addresses were made by Bishop Peter Muldoon of Rockford, Ill.; Rev. James H. Cotter of Ironton, Attorney General T. S. Hogan, Rev. R. A. MacEachen of Barton, M. F. Donahue of Philadelphia, Secretary Anthony Matre of St. Louis.

After choosing the executive officers for the coming year, the American Federation of Catholic Societies voted to hold its 1912 convention in Louisville, Los Angeles and Birmingham, Ala., were contestants for the meeting against Louisville.

The following officers were elected: President, Edward Feeney, Brooklyn, sixth term; vice presidents, J. B. Calkers, Newark, N. J.; T. P. Flynn, Chicago; J. A. Collier, Shakopee, Minn.; J. J. Hynes, Buffalo, N. Y.; J. J. Regan, St. Paul, Minn.; J. W. Phelps, Dallas, Tex.; secretary, Anthony Matre, St. Louis; treasurer, C. H. Schulte, Detroit; marshal, J. W. West, Kansas City, Kan.; color bearer, Chief Horn Cloud of the Sioux Indians, South Dakota.

By an overwhelming majority the resolutions condemning the National Educational association were voted down by the federation.

Finds Missing Sister

Southern Woman Seeks Release From Cincinnati Sanitarium.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 24.—After searching for several weeks for her sister, Miss Annie Palmer, who she says was spirited away from her home, Miss Alice Palmer, a well-to-do woman of Atlanta, Ga., declared she had located her in a sanitarium in Cincinnati, and filed a writ of habeas corpus seeking for her release. The writ was granted by Common Pleas Judge Wade Cushing.

Attorney Bruce told the court Miss Palmer had been brought to the institution by her half sister, with the consent of a brother and two other sisters, all residents of the south.

Miss Palmer alleges that her sister Annie, 36, is confined in the sanitarium and that the officials of the institution have refused her permission to see or communicate with her. She charges that her half sister, Mrs. H. H. Cummings of Augusta, Ga., went to Atlanta while the plaintiff was visiting in Vermont and secured her sister.

It is said that the father of the women was formerly a wealthy business man of Augusta, Ga., and left a large estate at his death.

Edison's Wife Is Lost

Minneapolis, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, wife of the inventor, is lost somewhere between Banff, B. C., and this city. She is on a trip to the western states, and all mail forwarded to her from the Michigan Central offices in Detroit has been returned. A telegram from Banff states that she left there Aug. 13. Since that date her whereabouts have been a mystery.

The sides of a fireplace should be well splayed or beveled in order to reflect the heat, says Arts and Decoration. The back should lean forward at the top for the same purpose, and the fireplace should not be too deep. A projecting chimney produces an effect of pushing the guest away, whereas a receding one beckons him nearer to enjoy the hospitality of the open fire. For this reason the inglenook—that is, the fireplace built into the wall of the room—is especially cozy and attractive.

Bankers Seek to Down Aldrich Crowd.

HAVE OWN CURRENCY IDEAS

Will Start Campaign to Displace National Monetary Commission—Former Senator From Rhode Island Hard at Work on Report Which He Hopes Will Be Acceptable to Congress—Several Lane Ducks Said to Be in Need of Ready Coin.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Members of the national monetary commission have received a tip that there is a movement among western bankers and financiers to cut under the national commission and to start an independent propaganda to advance the cause of currency reform.

Professor J. Lawrence Laughlin of Chicago, a well-known economic writer, seems to be the moving spirit back of the movement. He was in Washington, it is said, to organize the independent movement and make plans for the establishment of a public bureau to advance the cause of monetary reform legislation.

No concealment is made of the fact that the main reason for starting the new propaganda is to eliminate ex-Senator Aldrich from the important position he now holds in the general plan for advancing currency reform legislation. The former senator from Rhode Island is chairman of the national monetary commission. He has announced that he intends to devote his time almost exclusively to the

Huge Guns of the Battleship Florida as Seen In Turrets

FINISHING touches are being put on the battleship Florida in the Brooklyn navy yard, and the huge Dreadnought will be ready for her official speed trials late in September or early in October. She is expected to attain a speed of twenty and three-fourth miles an hour, a speed that would have been thought excellent for an unarmored cruiser a few years ago. When the Florida was launched in May, 1910, she was the largest and most powerful warship in Uncle Sam's navy, but since then other larger vessels have been started. The Florida is 521 feet 6 inches in length, her beam is 88 feet 2 1/2 inches, and she draws 28 1/2 feet of water. She will have cost $6,000,000 by the time she is ready for service. She is noteworthy as being the first vessel of her type to be constructed in a government navy yard and also because of her heavy armament. She has ten twelve-inch guns, four of which are shown in the picture above. The other six are in turrets abaft the funnels. Like the forward guns, they are mounted on superimposed turrets in such a manner that all ten guns can be fired as a broadside. Four can be fired directly ahead and six directly astern.

Atwood Will End Tonight

Aviator Atwood Starts Down Hudson For New York City.

Castleton, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Having attached the two pontoons to his aeroplane, Harry N. Atwood left here at 5 o'clock this morning for Poughkeepsie on his trip from St. Louis to New York. He is sailing over the Hudson river. Before leaving he said he preferred landing on Governor's Island, where he could find clear spaces for his descent into New York, rather than attempt to land where cross-currents from ocean winds might make things ticklish. He is expected to reach New York at 6 o'clock this evening.

Towerman Assumes All Blame

Columbus, O., Aug. 24.—All blame for the wreck of the Big Four flyer at the T. & O. C. crossing last week was placed upon the towerman, Jacob Eastman, by the state public service commission. He gave up all information, practically admitting that the accident was entirely his fault. According to his story one of the switch levers was out of order and instead of spiking the switch and flagging the engineer, as provided in the rules of the T. & O. C. company, he gave the Big Four train a clear track. He is now looking for a new job.

GIRL'S ASSAILANT KILLED BY FLORIST

Ex-Convict Intimidated Couple In Mansfield Park.

Mansfield, O., Aug. 24.—A man supposed to be Charles Wolford, ex-convict, lies dead in a local undertaker's room as the result of an apparent attempt at assault on the young woman companion of the man who killed him.

Walter Clever, a florist, near Belleville, and Miss Hortense Shafer, daughter of Albert Shafer, were seated in the north end of Sherman Heiman park when an unknown man confronted them with a revolver and ordered them to accompany him across the adjacent railroad tracks.

Under threat of death they complied, fearing to make an outcry, but when their assailant was momentarily off his guard, after he had compelled his victims to lie down on the ground and lay beside them, young Clever seized a clod of earth and struck the stranger in the face, partially blinding him, and then seized him around the throat with both hands and choked him to such good effect that when assistance arrived, in response to the screams of the couple for aid, their assailant was dead.

Skirmish Runs Are Started

Four Stages of Match Ended With Exception of Two Relays.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 24.—The national individual match, the first of a series of the matches under the auspices of the ar department, began with 711 entries at the skirmish. Four stages of the match were completed with the exception of the last two relays at 600 yards, which had to be postponed owing to darkness. The highest skirmish runs were made by Lieutenant J. H. Cole, District of Columbia, and Test of Texas, who each made 99. They will shoot off the the for the special gold medal awarded for the highest skirmish run.

Fits Up Hard Fight.

Dayton, O., Aug. 24.—Under water for at least five minutes and unconscious for half an hour, Erhart Thiel, 19, of Chicago, still lives, after having been fished out of the Miami river here. He was swimming in the Miami when he sank. His companion, attracted the attention of the Rev. Earl R. Bull, a missionary to Japan, who is visiting relatives here. Rev. Mr. Bull procured hooks and a boat and rescued Thiel.

Elusive Edward Exudes Enthusiasm

A Washington C. H. citizen was walking down street in Indianapolis a few days ago when he was surprised by some one coming up in the rear and striking him on the shoulder with his hand.

"Hello!" said the voice in the rear, and as the Washingtonian turned he recognized Ed Castleton, a former well known character of this city who became famous here as the man who was married four times before he was 30 years old.

"Well, what are you doing here Ed," asked the man from Washington.

"I am here to buy a violin that I understood was for sale for $2500. I am offered $7500 for the instrument if I can get it," said Castleton.

"Seven thousand five hundred dollars for a violin! Why, I wouldn't give that much for all the violins in the world."

"Why, that isn't much of a price. They sell sometimes for $50,000, and I have sold a number of them myself for $25,000 each."

"I don't care about your violins; tell me what you are doing, Ed?"

"Well, I'm engaged extensively in mining enterprises in California. I am interested in thirty-two different mining enterprises in California. Last year my income was $1,200,000 and this year I expect it to be double that amount. I spend very little time at my home in New York; I am generally away looking after my interests in California, London, Paris and Berlin."

"When you come to New York," said Castleton, "be sure to look me up. My offices are in the Flatiron building. I have a half dozen different styles of automobiles and you can take your choice and see the city. I want to be there when you come as I would like to accompany you."

The Washington C. H. man says that Castleton tells big stories of the "big business" with which he is tied up.

elves the second highest number of votes will receive the H. Link & Son Upright Piano with this restriction, that if the player piano is won in district No. 1, the upright piano must be awarded to the opposite district, or vice versa. In this way one of the grand prizes will be won in Washington and one outside of Washington. After the grand prizes have been awarded, the names of the winners will be stricken from the list and the holders of the first places will then be given the prizes known as District 1st prize. The same plan will be used in awarding the District 2d prizes.

Remember, three prizes will be given to each district, and each and every candidate will receive a square deal. One district will not have the advantage over another. District No. 1 will receive a grand prize and two district prizes. District No. 2 will also receive a grand prize and two district prizes.

District No. 2 comprises the county of Fayette outside of Washington and the adjoining counties, including the votes.

Poured Gasoline On Flame Auto in Ruins

Gasoline used as a fire extinguisher proved an expensive experiment to Earl Clark, late of South Charleston, for as soon as the explosive fluid came in contact with his automobile, which was afire the machine was a mass of flames.

Clark had brought his machine, a white steamer, from Chicago and it was placed in the yard in the rear of the Sullivan garage in South Charleston. While in the yard, oil from a burning lamp set fire to the automobile and Mr. Sullivan in his endeavor to quench the flames, picked up a bucket which he thought contained water and threw it on the fire. But as the supposed water proved to be gasoline, which some of the garage employes had been using to clean machines, he only succeeded in adding fuel to the flame.

When the fire was finally quenched there was nothing left of the $3,000 automobile but a mass of twisted iron and steel. As Clark carried no insurance on his machine the loss is complete.

FOR COUNCILMAN, Third Ward, O. D. Marchant.

THURSDAY AT THE FAIR

Wednesday, at the fair, turned out to be a good day, with the afternoon crowd one of the largest ever out on Wednesday. The grand stand was filled for the races.

Threatening clouds hung like a pall until just after the exciting neck and neck running race, when they poured down a perfect deluge.

Everybody sought the shelter of the grand stand and packed in good naturedly for half an hour when the rain slackened and there was a rush for autos and carriages.

During the afternoon many visited the different exhibits and the cattle and stock departments and others took in the Midway attractions, but the greater number stayed in the grand stand or in the quarter stretch and centered their attention on the races. The local horses on the track aroused local pride and it was gratifying to the crowd that several showed indications of being "bread winners."

The finish of Wednesday's races: The last heat of the 3:00 trot was won by The Kitten in 2:23½; Burzeau 2nd; Diamond Dale 3rd; Buster Russell 4th; Conners 5th; Estafet 6th.

The last heat of the 2:20 pace resulted as follows: Judge Lerric 1st; Hal D 2nd; Faith McKinney 3rd; Toga Hal 4th; Lena Valdo 5th; Mayor Holland 6th. Time, 2:14.

The 1st heat in the ¾ mile running race resulted: One More 1st; Benson Hurst 2nd; Lady Wink 3rd; Greenwald 4th; Kittle New Light 5th; Soprano 6th; Morning Song 7th. Time 1:18½.

The crowd in attendance today is one of the largest that ever flocked to this city. All trains were crowded to the steps, and rigs of all descriptions from the big farm wagon loads to the modern touring cars hauling eight or ten persons, came in from all directions, thick and fast.

The rain stopped most farm work and laid the dust so that traveling was good. The weather was just cool enough to be enticing, and everything favored the fair except the half clouded sky, which kept the track from drying as rapidly as it should.

The roads to and from the fair ground, where the autos and hacks used so much to take care of the thousands who flocked to this city and then rode out in the machines or hacks, soon became very disagreeable, owing to the mud. One of the big auto trucks became stranded and caused considerable inconvenience before it was able to resume its trip.

A second heavy rain at noon drove every one to the shelter of buildings and tents. It was quite a disappointment as there were hundreds of picnic parties with lunches all spread, and the visiting hour was cut short most unpleasantly.

The cattle judging was interrupted also by the rain.

The horse classes were shown on the hill instead of the muddy track. The awards were made as follows: Stallion, 3 years old and over—1st, Val McCoy, Exile; 2nd, Chas. Allen, Baron Bond.

Stallion, 2 years old and under 3—1st, Allison McCoy, black colt by Bogun; 2nd, Harry Taylor, black stallion by Bogun.

Stallion colt, 1 year and under 2—1st, John McCoy; 2nd, Chas. Allen. Stallion colt under 1 year—1st, Harry Taylor; 2nd, Chas. Allen.

Brood mare with sucking colt by side—1st, Harry Taylor; 2nd, Chas. Allen.

Mare or gelding, 3 years old and over—1st, Harry Taylor; 2nd, Martin Cox.

Mare or gelding 2 years old and under 3—1st, Chas. Mark; 2nd, Chas. Allen.

Mare or gelding, 1 year or under 2—1st, Chas. Allen; 2nd, Harry Taylor.

Mare colt under 1 year—1st, Chas. Allen; 2nd, Harry Taylor.

Rankin Paul is efficiently in charge of the classes as marshal of the day.

Fine Driving Horse Breaks Neck in Fall

Stepping into a rut, or upon a stone, a fine pacing horse, valued at $300 and belonging to Mr. Noah Thornton, living a few miles northwest of this city, fell in the middle of the road yesterday and broke its neck, death resulting instantly.

Mr. Thornton was on his way to the fair and was driving along the road a few miles northwest of this city, when a rig behind attempted to pass him. Mr. Thornton's horse immediately dashed forward and was going at a very rapid rate of speed when a stretch of fresh gravel loomed up just ahead, and in trying to avoid this, Mr. Thornton pulled the horse sharply to one side, and in an instant it stumbled and fell, doubling its head under its body in such a manner that its neck snapped.

Mr. Thornton escaped uninjured above a severe shaking up, but the buggy was badly damaged. The horse was one of the fastest pacers in the county.

previously sent in. This feature should be understood. More votes are allowed on this offer than at any time hereafter. Other vote offers will be given but all subsequent offers will allow a smaller vote.

The fact that different candidates step into first place almost every day has greatly stimulated the effort of all candidates who realize that the battle of ballots has begun in real earnest and that their very best energies will be required. It is quite possible for any candidate to secure enough votes to land in first place in a very short time by putting forth a little effort.

DON'T HOLD SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Candidates are requested to turn in their subscriptions often. In this way subscribers will get their papers and you will get their votes. You do not have to wait until you have the required number of subscriptions for the extra vote offer, but may turn in one, two, three or more at a time. A record of each subscription will be kept in this office and the bonus ballot called for on the total number of subscriptions turned in for the week will be issued.

THE VOTE OFFER.

For every 12 new subscriptions turned into this office between Aug. 24 and Aug. 31, at 5:30 p. m., 12,000 extra votes will be given. For every 25 new subscriptions, 30,000 extra votes will be given.

NOTICE

To Contestants in District No. 2

Subscriptions that are mailed before the special offer expires, Thursday, August 31st, at 5:30 p. m., will be allowed extra votes even if they are not received at this office until the next day. This will give the contestants in the rural districts an even chance with the Washington candidates and enable them to work up until the hour the special offer closes.

WHERE THE PRIZES WILL GO.

The person who receives the largest number of votes in the entire contest will receive the Schaff Bros. Player Piano. The person who re-

MUST HAVE BRAINS.

While a group of men were looking at and admiring a particularly beautiful, intricate and complete piece of machinery a few days since, an idler who happened to be in the vicinity remarked that the man who "got that up" certainly had brains enough to get along in the world.

The remark is not an unusual one on an occasion like that, but in this group happened to be a man upon whom the remark made an impression and he answered the idler to the effect that a man better have brains these days if he expected to get along in the world.

There was a world of homely truth in both remarks.

The man who would succeed in this world and rise above the drudge and pauper must have brains and he must use his brain.

Nature endows normal men with a brain and whether that brain grows and is harnessed and trained to work for the possessor, depends entirely upon the man. All men can't be statesmen, or professional men and live, but there is now no field of activity in all the great bee hive of human life in which the brain power of the individual fails to command respect and bring in its full quota of remuneration.

"There is always room at the top" applies with more particular emphasis now than ever before, and the top exists in every one of the stations in life and that pinnacle cannot be reached by brute force. Brain power is an essential, and is not now, never was and never will be below par.

It will sell at a premium as long as this world rolls round during the age of man.

The greatest civilizing agencies, the greatest aids to moral up-lift are the inventions which come not from the ranks of the professional men.

Times have changed and with that change men's views have changed. Not many years ago it was the common belief that a brain in good working order, and made to work every day was only necessary in the ranks of the professional men, but now there is no walk of life in which brain power is not necessary.

Honesty Talk

Business World of Today Fosters Dishonesty

By JOHN A. HOWLAND

PERHAPS never before in the history of this country have we had so much conventional talk on the subject of honesty.

As some one has characterized the movement, we seem all at once to have discovered the Ten Commandments. We are preaching honesty almost as if it were a new cure-all just added to the pharmacopoeia.

Not long ago a young friend came to me with a discouraged face and dejected pose. He had lost his place in a great counting house because of the influence of a recent money stringency. At the time he was employed by the house another young man of his own age entered the service. They were of the same age, in the same department, and with this tie of strangeness to the place appealing to them they had become acquainted readily.

My young man I had known from childhood. I knew his sterling worth and was convinced of his capacity and equipment for his work. I was surprised especially when he told me that while he had been "let out" the other young fellow had been retained in the service. I questioned him as to possible reasons for this and I got the true story of the move.

Jones, as I shall call him, was of the shy type, quick, apt and conscienceless to a degree. He possessed a shifty diplomacy and tact which, while making him no warm friends, made numerous pleasant acquaintances for him. He was a "good fellow," neither trusted nor distrusted by his associates.

"But both of you were in positions of trust," I said. "Could you make no showing for preference on the score of honesty and dependability?"

"That's the point," exclaimed my young friend. "No, for you see both of us were under bond."

Still further in explanation he showed me how impossible it was in this counting house for the average worker whose honesty might be impeachable to have this honesty recognized by any one as a part of his working capital. There was a time clock at the entrance doors. A superintendent kept a literal eye upon the working force of the office. An auditor checked up the work of every one whose cupidity or carelessness might involve loss to the concern. And above all, those men responsible in any way for moneys were under bond with a surety company.

The whole tendency of the business world today is toward fostering dishonesty because of its determination not to recognize honesty.

Why in this time, of all others, should we concern ourselves with the wordy preaching of honesty? Has it come to the point that we are lecturing on honesty as a lost virtue, as the critic lectures on the lost arts?

Civilization naturally imposes dissimulation and the small hypocrisies. Honesty comes only of training in right thinking and under circumstances which give opportunities for exercising the virtue. Continue to preach honesty to the young man who has been walled in until dishonesty on his part is an impossibility and in another generation he will sneer at the doctrine as he would at a game law to preserve the mastodon!

Canapes

Canapes may be served hot or cold and should always be small and dainty.

For cheese canapes cut circular pieces of bread with a biscuit cutter one-third inch thick and brush each with melted butter; spread with a thin layer of English mustard and sprinkle thickly with grated American cheese and a little minced parsley. Place in oven until cheese is melted, then serve in nests of lettuce.

Lobster Canapes—Chop one-half cup of lobster meat fine and mix thoroughly with the white of two hard boiled eggs which have been pressed through a ricer. Season with salt, pepper, one teaspoonful of English mustard. Moisten with thick mayonnaise. Saute circular pieces of bread until brown, then spread with the mixture. Sprinkle over these a thin layer of hard boiled yolks and lobster pressed through the ricer.

Sardine Canapes—Prepare circles or oblong pieces of bread and pound the contents of a box of sardines to a paste. Spread the fish over the bread and arrange on top chopped hard boiled egg and pickle or chopped olives and pimientos.

Ham Canapes—Cut bread in slices not more than a quarter of an inch thick and then in circles with a biscuit cutter. Saute in butter and spread with chopped ham, moisten with cream. Sprinkle with grated cheese and brown in hot oven.

Swiss Pudding

Stew one pound of gooseberries with sugar. Mix one-half pound of bread crumbs with one-half of finely chopped shredded suet; two heaping tablespoonsful might do if not wanted rich. Add two heaping tablespoons of fine sugar to the crumbs and a flavoring of lemon or ginger. Put a layer of the mixture in the bottom of a well buttered pudding dish, then a layer of gooseberries, and so on, letting the top layer be the mixture. Bake in a moderate oven for an hour and serve with a custard sauce.

Gooseberries In Batter

Make one-half pound of flour, two eggs and a pint of milk into a batter. Use no baking powder but beat the batter a good deal, and make it two hours before using. Wash and top and tail one pound of gooseberries. Cook very slightly with sugar, so as not to break them. Lay in a well greased pudding dish; mix two tablespoonsful of melted butter with the batter, pour over the berries and bake in a quick oven until a golden color. Serve as soon as it is ready, with plenty of soft sugar to eat with it. This is a favorite with the children.

RICE SOUFFLE—Pour one-half of a cupful of well-washed rice into a large saucepan filled with rapidly boiling salted water. Keep at a galloping boil until, on rubbing a few grains between the fingers, they feel tender all through. Drain, put in a double boiler with one pint of milk and cook until the milk is about absorbed, then stir in carefully the yolks of five eggs beaten with four tablespoonsful of sugar. Cook for five minutes, add one tablespoon of butter, cut into bits, and take from the fire. Add one teaspoonful of vanilla, cover and set aside. Just before the meal, cut lightly into this mixture the whites of the eggs, whipped to a stiff dry froth, turn into a greased pudding dish, and bake in a hot oven until well puffed and brown, which will take from twenty minutes to half an hour.

POETRY FOR TODAY

A DAY WITH YOURSELF.

Think of it some time and make up your mind
To try spending a day with yourself;
Off in the quiet away from the grind,
The struggle and striving for pelf.
Go out in a peaceful, still nook that you know,
Somewhere that life's sweet for the soul.
And find how it goes to be just what you are,
To see yourself truly and whole.

It does the heart good and scatters the clouds
Just once in a while to be found
Far off in some hamlet of holy content
With no one but yourself around.
It gives you a chance to go over yourself,
To talk over matters of note;
To lift from your own eyes the beam that is there
Ere you take from a neighbor's the mote.

It's better than flocking with crowds on the shore,
Than traveling with throngs on the street;
There are so many thoughts that you never thought of
That's it's might sure pop you will meet;
And so many thoughts will reveal many faults,
And you'll wonder how ever they grew;
Oh, try it, the habit of taking yourself
And go spending a day with You!

Apple and Quince Jelly
Wash, wipe, and core the fruit. Put the same through the coarse part of the meat grinder; place the pulp in a granite kettle, cover with water, and let cook slowly about fifteen minutes. Pour into muslin bag and drain; return juice to clean kettle and boil down one-half; skim. Now measure and to every cup of juice allow two-thirds cup of sugar; boil quickly for ten minutes or less, if it begins to thicken. Twice the amount of jelly can be made from the same amount of apples or quinces by using this recipe.

Vegetable Salad

One pint green beans (boil one-half hour in salt water), one cucumber, slice and sprinkle with salt, let stand one-half hour, and squeeze out water, one head of lettuce cut in pieces, two tomatoes cut up and one large onion minced. In a glass dish put a layer of tomatoes, add onions and finally a layer of beans; sprinkle salt, pepper, and sugar between each layer; this may be repeated until dish is full; pour vinegar over all. Mayonnaise dressing may be used instead of seasoning and vinegar.

Tutti Frutti

Take one gallon crock fruit, put in one pint of best alcohol, then one cup of granulated sugar, then one cup of fruit, then one cup of sugar; continue to do this way until finished, but you use only one pint of alcohol for the gallon crock; and then you place in fruit; start with strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, bananas, oranges, cherries, plums, apricots, pineapples, peaches and pears. Always keep the crock covered not adding the fruit any faster than the juice will cover. After your crock is filled, place a piece of brandied paper on top; cover securely.

Swedish Dainties

These are delicious and quickly made and by separating dough into sections and flavoring each section with a different flavor, such as vanilla, almond or lemon, or sprinkling chopped nuts or cinnamon on other pieces of dough one has quite a platter of mixed dainties all out of same batch. Cream together one cup of sugar and one generous cup of butter, add two well beaten eggs and three cups of flour. Mix well; separate and flavor as above directed. Take small pieces of dough size of a plum and roll with hands into long stick shaped strips; form into rings one and one-half inches in diameter, place in pan, and bake about ten minutes in slow oven until a delicate golden brown.

THIRTY YEARS TOGETHER.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and its the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for lagrippe, asthma, hay-fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. EVERYBODY'S BIBLE QUESTION BOX

YOUR BIBLE QUESTIONS WILL BE ANSWERED IN THESE COLUMNS, OR BY MAIL IF SENT TO THE EDITOR OF THIS JOURNAL.

Q.—Does not the general increase of knowledge through modern educational systems bid fair to lift the whole world to a new plane of thought and action?

Answer.—Education along proper lines, to those in proper heart attitude and relationship to God, should surely prove in every way a blessing; comparatively few, however, of our race are in the right attitude of heart to receive the blessing. Hence, the educational advance is not bringing happiness, but to many is bringing misery. They are cultivating tastes and aspirations which they cannot satisfy.

The heart that is full of selfishness and that is not submissive to Divine providences progresses steadily toward greater discontent; as a matter of fact, discontent is growing in the same ratio as education. Few are content; few are trustful; few have faith in God and in His Word. The majority are restive, devoured by an acquisitive spirit; whether rich or poor, all are insatiate. The earnest Christian who has the true interpretation of the Bible is the only one who can use his education, his knowledge, to advantage and with resulting peace and comfort. To such the Lord said through the Prophet: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee, because he trusteth in Thee (Isaiah xxvi, 3). As to the world in general, only under the righteous reign of the Messiah will they learn righteousness.

ATTACK LIKE TIGERS.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at Blackmer & Tanquary.

Stuffed Tomatoes

Six large, firm tomatoes, six soda crackers, two onions chopped, three teaspoons of butter, salt and pepper to taste. Wash each tomato, cut off the tops, and scoop out the seeds and pulp. Sprinkle the inside of the tomatoes with salt. Roll the cracker, mix the pulp, chopped onions, and seasonings with the cracker crumbs, and refill the tomatoes. Place the butter on top and bake in a hot oven twelve or fifteen minutes.

Fruit Conserve

One pint of rhubarb cut in small pieces, one pint red raspberries, one pint of red currants, one pound seedless raisins (sultana), one pound English walnuts chopped, and four pounds sugar. Boil all together until thick, then add the grated rind and juice of two oranges and two lemons, remove from fire and pour into jelly glasses.

PEACH ICE CREAM

Scald one pint of milk in a double boiler; add two level tablespoonfuls of flour rubbed to a thin paste with a little cold milk, stir until slightly thickened, then cover and cook for twenty minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat together four eggs, two cupfuls of sugar and a pinch of salt in a little of the cooked milk, then turn all into the double boiler and stir until the custard thickens. Strain and set aside until cold. Pare, wash and rub through a colander sufficient peaches to give a little more than one pint of pulp and sweeten to taste. Add this to the cold custard with one pint of rich cream, pour the mixture into a freezer and freeze until firm. Remove the dasher, pack down the cream with a long spoon, replace the cover, fill up the tub with ice and salt and set aside for several hours to ripen.

MARRIED LIFE, SECOND YEAR

HELEN HAD BEEN home ten days now. And while these first days of her return had not been all that she dreamed they would be, still she had been very happy. Though Warren was not as tender and affectionate as she had hoped, yet he was far more considerate of her than he used to be.

The heat had been very trying, and made him at times most irritable. But she could see he tried not to vent his displeasure on her. And that had been one of the things that had hurt her most. Whatever the cause of his anger or discomfort, he used always to make her feel that it was in some way her fault.

That fearful hot evening they had taken the car ride had been the most unfortunate one since her return. Warren had been undeniably irritable and sullen then. He had hardly spoken to her on the way home. And she had gone to bed with a heavy heart, fearing that he was relapsing into his old spells of irritability. But he had made up for it the next morning by saying as he started off:

"Take it easy today, Kitten. Keep as cool as you can, and tonight we'll go to a roof garden. That'll be better than a crowded trolley ride. How about having dinner up there?"

"Oh, no, Warren, we mustn't dine out so much. You know how expensive it is. Let's have dinner here first—just something cold and then go to the roof afterward."

"All right, economical little person!" as he pulled at a loose strand of hair.

"Oh, you're musing me all up!"

"You look prettier when you're mused," brushing her hair loosely over her forehead. "There, now, go look at yourself in the glass—you look like the girl on the magazine cover."

When he had gone she did run in to the mirror, and not only was the slightly disheveled hair becoming, but her cheeks were softly flushed and her eyes shining from Warren's unaccustomed compliment.

He so rarely said anything of this kind to her that she treasured every word. And now she was more than ever glad that since her return she had faithfully kept the promise she had made herself—to always wear a fresh and dainty house gown every morning for breakfast and in every way to make herself as attractive as she could.

Her resolve that he should never again see her carelessly or unbecomingly dressed, she had so far rigidly kept. And she felt that the compliment he had paid her this morning was worth all the time and effort it had cost.

So instead of spending an unhappy day brooding over his harshness of the night before, just because he had said what he did this morning, everything was "right" again. And she went about her work humming happily.

That evening they went to a roof garden, and again the next night. But each day grew hotter than the one before.

Warren vowed repeatedly that they would never spend another summer in this apartment, but he admitted it would be better to wait until it was cooler before they again went apartment-seeking.

The papers had daily announced that the morrow would bring relief. But the thermometer kept steadily upward until now, the eighth day of the heat wave, dawned hotter than any that had come before. The air was stifling.

Warren had laid all night on a couch in the front room and Helen had her bed drawn close under the window, but neither had slept. Winifred, too, on her little cot by the nursery window, had been most fretful.

"Helen," Warren demanded suddenly, his chin in the air as he struggled with his collar, "how long will it take you to pack up for a week at the sea shore?"

"A week at the sea shore!"

"Yes, this thing has reached the limit. We're not going to stay here another night in this heat. We'll all be sick if we do."

"But where can we go?"

"To one of the hotels at some near-by beach—there's plenty of them."

"Oh, but can we afford it? You know how expensive it will be."

"It'll be cheaper than having all of us sick. Now, can you be ready by 5 and we'll go out this evening?"

"But, Warren—"

"Well, we're going, that's all there is about it. I don't intend to spend another night like this. Now don't take a lot of things—just enough for you and Winifred to get along on. I'll be home in time to pack my suit case."

"But, dear, have you any idea what it will cost?"

"Now just leave that to me. All you've got to do is to get yourself and Winifred ready by 5 o'clock. Can you do it?"

"Oh, yes; of course, I can."

"Good! I'll be here at 5 sharp. It'll take me about twenty minutes to get my things together and we'll be out of here by half past."

A week at the seashore! In spite of Helen's anxiety as to the expense, she was filled with joyful anticipation. Somehow the thought of going away with Warren for a week seemed to renew the romance of their honeymoon.

To many women the possibility of romance in married life ends before the first year, but with Helen two years had not succeeded in crushing it.

She was ever trying to make of Warren the lover. And although he was far from that, what he lacked in sentiment her own vivid imagination made up. She was always planning scenes of tenderness and love to be lived through with him, and countless disappointments had not as yet crushed out this tendency.

And now in this trip to the seashore she saw many possibilities of hours in which they could be very happy.

She remembered during their engagement, one wonderful day's trip to the beach, and how they had sat out on the sand in the moonlight and listened to the rushing waves.

A DOUBTFUL FAVOR

The case was over. It had dragged on wearily for three days, and the plaintiff, who had gained the verdict, calculated that he was in for a nice little $500 check.

But he had forgotten his lawyer.

"Here is my account, sir," said his counsel, with a succulent smile. "We solicitors—ah—must claim our little bit, you know."

Their little bit! The unhappy client gazed at the document in bewilderment.

"Is this what you charge?" he asked.

"Yes, I have deducted the amount that was awarded," he explained, "and this is just the trifling balance that is due for my service. No; don't thank me, sir! I have charged you so little because I knew your father."

"Then, thank goodness," replied his client, as he staggered to the window for air, "that you didn't know my grandfather!"

The Only Way.

"JANE," SAID HER mistress, "you really will have to put a stop to the visits of your follower."

"Yes, I must, mum," replied Jane. "But you have said that before," expostulated her mistress, "and there it's ended!"

"I'm sure I've done my best, mum," said Jane; "it isn't easy. But I'll really try and settle him on my next Thursday out."

Her next Thursday out came and went. Her follower also came and went [with Jane], and Jane eventually returned herself in a radiant mood.

"I've settled him this time, mum!" she exclaimed breathlessly.

Her mistress wagged her head complacently. But in the hour of victory one should be generous to fallen foes, so she expressed the hope that Jane had not been too hard on the young man.

"Hard on him?" cried Jane. "No, mum, that I wasn't. I've just married him, and I leave at the end of the month!"

England's Monarch

Lover of Clean Sport

King George has no subjects more loyal than those who follow horseracing. When his sire began to creep into the hearts of the people it was through sport that he came. He was like a father joining in the sports of his children. He could not romp with them, but he could applaud their courage and their daring, their clean, healthy striving to win the prizes of the field that is level and open to every man, the field of sport.

King George made known to all the world his personal interest in horseracing. He has been for some time brother of the confraternities of football, cricket, yachting and other many games, and as his reign progresses toward its full fruition it will be found that his interest is something much stronger than mere patronage.

Little has been done not only to invigorate the sport, but to cleanse it of some of its more glaring inefficiencies and impurities. The majority of the methods employed in governing English horse races are pre-historic. It is hardly possible that there will be legislation that will regulate betting for the national conscience is very tender where anything in the nature of speculation is concerned, but there is at least room for the executives of meetings to do something more than they are doing to keep their rings clear of the thieves and welters that abound at the present time.

A police officer once said that the race course was the finest safety valve that England could possess. It cannot, however, be denied that the sport has a wonderful fascination for crooks, but there are hundreds of directions in which reforms are needed.

When the King was at the Epsom races recently he chanced to throw away the end of a cigar so that it fell at the feet of an ancient and somewhat tattered subject, who eagerly pounced upon it.

"What's good enough for the King is good enough for me," said he, speaking with the air of a man who would not condescend to smoke any cigar not up to the kingly standard, though it was noticed that he took from his mouth a clay pipe filled with shag to make way for the still smoking stump.

A laugh went up at the old man's saying. There did not seem any doubt about the truth of it. It was the proudest moment of the old fellow's life when he began to puff at the King's cigar end in the most loyal way in the world.

A Visit to the Wail Club

FOR THE REASON that he so rarely appears at the Wailing Place, the waiters there were requested last evening to make room for Lysander John Appleton, and to pipe their wails in a minor air, letting him carry the tune.

"I see," he wailed with his face to the wall, "that the women are giving it to the men because they do not keep to husbands the promises they made as lovers."

"The women expect this, though every mother's daughter of them has every mother's daughter of them has too the blossoms on the tree."

"A man's home is conducted on the 'pay-as-you-enter' plan, and he is expected to throw in with every payment a kiss, a compliment or an embrace, and some wives also demand poetic effusions."

"Naturally he loses all sentiment, but if his wife is the helpmeet she promised to be she also loses that sort of foolishness. If he remains foolish enough to want to hold her hand, when, if she keeps her antenatal promises, will he find it when it hasn't a broom, a frying pan, or a baby's bottle in it?"

"If he wants to kiss her, and her mind is properly bent on her affairs, when will he find her mouth when it hasn't a safety pin in it?"

"The men are abused because they don't discuss public affairs with their wives, but there isn't a father of a new baby living who can say to his wife tonight, 'War has been declared with Japan, who will not get a reply something like this:'

"Is that so? The new food we got for the baby seems to agree with him."

"Let him add: 'An earthquake has submerged half the United States,' and she will look mildly surprised and reply, 'Do you know I believe the baby's eyes are going to be blue after all.'"

"Naturally he grows discouraged, and begins to read his paper without comment, and after the baby is through teething she notices his indifference, resents it, and writes papers of it to read before her club."

"She is disappointed in him, and the world gets out its rocking chair, prepared to rock and wail with her, but let a man admit his disappointment and it jumps out of that rocking chair in a hurry and grabs for a club."

Then Lysander John concluded his wail, and fled, and none too soon, for when the husbands and fathers who had gathered to wail about their own women folks heard his ungallant attack on womanhood, it aroused the warhorse in them and every man grabbed for a club.

Stuffed Tomatoes

Six large, firm tomatoes, six soda crackers, two onions chopped, three teaspoons of butter, salt and pepper to taste. Wash each tomato, cut off the tops, and scoop out the seeds and pulp. Sprinkle the inside of the tomatoes with salt. Roll the cracker, mix the pulp, chopped onions, and seasonings with the cracker crumbs, and refill the tomatoes. Place the butter on top and bake in a hot oven twelve or fifteen minutes.

CURRIED EGGS

This dish calls for half a dozen hard boiled eggs and one pint of white sauce for four people; in making the sauce cook in the butter one tablespoonful of finely chopped tart apple and a teaspoonful of curry powder. Add flour and milk as usual, and, when smooth and thick, the sliced eggs. Stand over hot water for fifteen minutes.

OF CONGRESS EXTRA SESSION

Reciprocity, Reapportionment, Statehood and Publicity Pass, While Tariff Bills, Election of Senators and Arbitration Fail to Pass.

THE extra session of the Sixty-second congress attempted much, but owing to people over whom it had no control the results fell short of the effort. The laws it actually passed were Canadian reciprocity, publicity of campaign expenses both before and after election, reapportionment of the house of representatives and statehood with the stinger of recall of judges extracted. The things it tried to pass, but was prevented, were three tariff bills, covering several schedules and parts of other schedules, all of which were vetoed; direct election of senators, which was hung up in conference committee and goes over to the regular session, and the reciprocity treaties with France and England, which were reported out of the foreign relations committee of the senate with amendments, but were not acted on for lack of time. There were minor measures, but these were the most important. In addition there were a new investigation of the Lorimer case, a probe into the election of Senator Stephen of Wisconsin, inquiries into the steel trust and sugar trust and examinations of the bureau of chemistry of the agricultural department in relation to the execution of the pure food laws, into Controller buy (Alaska) affair, into the expenditures of the state department and into the parcels post and postoffice department. The committees having these various inquiries in charge will presumably report to the regular session. At least none of them has reported yet.

While the president called the session to meet solely for the purpose of passing the Canadian reciprocity bill, it was readily recognized at the outset that the legislation would not be confined to that one item. This assumption was confirmed on the opening day of the session, when Speaker Clark laid before the house in a speech the Democratic program.

The progress of legislation through both houses of congress, during the session plainly indicates that by far the greater portion of the delays has been the fault of the senate. The house acted with dispatch on its program and by sending much general legislation to the senate early in the session was able to take long recesses in May, June and July while the ways and means committee framed the tariff legislation. The table of legislation follows:

Schedule of Legislation.

Canadian Reciprocity Bill.—Introduced April 12; reported to the house April 13; passed the house April 21; received by the senate and referred to the committee on finance April 24; reported to the senate July 13; passed by the senate July 22; signed by the president July 26.

Wool Revision Bill.—Introduced in the house June 2; reported to the house June 6; passed the house June 20; received by the senate and referred to the committee on finance June 21; reported to the senate without hearings, on motion of Senator Gore, June 22; passed the senate July 27; house conferees appointed Aug. 1; senate conferees appointed Aug. 2; conference report adopted by the house Aug. 14; conference report adopted by the senate Aug. 15; vetoed by the president Aug. 17.

Free List Bill.—Introduced in the house April 12; reported to the house April 19; passed the house May 8; received by the senate and referred to the senate committee on finance May 9; reported to the senate on motion of Senator Gore and without hearings, June 22; passed the senate Aug. 1; house conferees appointed Aug. 3; senate conferees appointed Aug. 4; conference report adopted by the senate Aug. 16; conference report adopted by the house Aug. 17; vetoed by the president Aug. 18.

Cotton Revision Bill.—Introduced in the house July 26; reported to the house July 27; passed the house Aug. 3; received by the senate and referred to the committee on finance Aug. 4; reported to the senate, on motion, Aug. 10; passed the senate, with amendments adding iron and steel schedule, reciprocal coal with Canada and chemicals and machinery used in the manufacture of cotton goods, Aug. 17; senate bill agreed to by the house Aug. 21; vetoed by the president Aug. 22.

Statehood Bill (first).—Introduced in the house April 4; reported to the house May 12; passed the house May 23; received by the senate and referred to the committee on territories May 25; reported to the senate July 11; passed the senate Aug. 9; conference day Aug. 8; Senate bill accepted by the house

Aug. 15.

Statehood Bill (second).—Introduced in the senate Aug. 16; reported to the senate Aug. 18; passed the senate Aug. 18; received by the house Aug. 18; passed by the house Aug. 19.

Apportionment.—Introduced in the house April 10; reported to the house April 25; passed the house April 27; received by the senate and referred to the committee on census, April 28; reported to the senate July 6; passed the senate Aug. 3; senate bill concurred in by the house Aug. 4; signed by the president Aug. 8.

Political Reform Measures.

Resolution Providing for the Direct Election of Senators.—Introduced in the house April 5; reported to the house April 12; passed the house April 13; received by the senate and referred to the committee on the judiciary April 17; reported to the senate May 1; passed the senate June 12; senate conferees appointed June 27; house conferees appointed July 5. This resolution is still in conference.

Publicity of Campaign Funds.—Introduced in the house April 10; reported to the house April 14; passed by the senate and referred to the committee on privileges and elections April 15; reported to the senate June 19; passed by the senate July 17; house conferees appointed Aug. 1; senate conferees appointed Aug. 2; conference report agreed to by the senate Aug. 16; by the house Aug. 17. Signed by the president Aug. 19.

Of the important legislation or legislative action remaining the senate has not acted upon the arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France, which were reported to the senate on Aug. 12.

The bone of contention in the bill for direct election of senators is the senate amendment placing senatorial elections under federal control. This is the same amendment which defeated it in the previous congress.

The chief difficulty in the way of the arbitration treaties is the desire of the senate to retain its control over what shall be arbitrated and to exempt certain matters from arbitration, such as the Monroe doctrine and the admission of Asiatics into the United States.

The reason for the first veto of the statehood bill, as already intimated, was the recall of judges feature in the Arizona constitution. This was eliminated in the second bill.

Waiting For Tariff Board.

The chief reasons assigned by President Taft for the veto of the tariff bills were that they were not scientifically and carefully drawn, that they were not in harmony with the protective principle and that the tariff board had not yet reported. He promised that before the next session the board would report as to the wool schedule and that he would then recommend revision in accordance with such report.

Trust investigations were begun during the session, and they are still in progress. Constructive legislation to bear on federal regulation of corporations is regarded as certain to come as a result of the inquiries, and plans already have been instituted to revise the anti-trust laws.

Special investigations into the United States Steel corporation and the American Sugar Refining company were undertaken to discover whether these industrial organizations operated in violation of the anti-trust and interstate commerce laws. The inquiries have been exhaustive and still are in progress, though the sugar committee, headed by Representative Hardwick of Georgia, practically has concluded its work and will meet in the fall to draft its report.

The Steel corporation inquiry developed many interesting facts, but the predominant feature of the inquiry was the emphatic public declarations of great financiers that the Sherman anti-trust law is too archaic to deal with modern business methods. They insisted that there must be new legislation to regulate the corporations of the country.

Chairman Stanley of Kentucky plans to resume taking testimony in the fall and hopes to have as witnesses Andrew Carnegie and J. Pierpont Morgan. Among the prominent men who testified at great length before the committee are former President Roosevelt, Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the Steel corporation; John W. Gates, since deceased; Grant B. Schley, Charles M. Schwab, George W. Perkins, Lewis Cass Ledyard, L. C. Hanna and Oakleigh Thorne. Colonel Roosevelt voluntarily appeared before the committee in New York to defend his course in approving the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company by the Steel corporation during the financial panic of 1907.

During the inquiry Judge Gary made the startling proposal that the government be given control of great corporations, even to the extent of regulating prices. His assertion that the Sherman law was "archaic" was reiterated by other witnesses. George W. Perkins said constructive legislation was absolutely essential to the needs of the great corporations of the country. Publicity of corporation affairs was advocated strongly by him as one means of eradicating existing trust evils and to retain the great benefits of trust operation.

Friction in the department of agriculture over the enf pure food laws has been exposed by one of many investigations originating in the Democratic house, and a countrywide issue is raised over the question of whether the activities of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the government's food expert, have been made ineffective.

Committees of the house on expenditures in the government departments were directed in special resolutions to inquire thoroughly into the affairs of the government. The Democrats announced that there would be a general housecleaning, that extravagance was rampant and that economies would be proposed. Predictions of many sensations were made. For many weeks the investigations progressed, and none of the committees has completed its task.

Much other work started by committees must await the action of the next session.

The question of coal lands in Alaska, the Controller buy controversy, in which President Taft's name figured, and all the kindred questions of government ownership and control allied therewith will be inherited by the session which begins next December. The Alaskan syndicate charges made by Delegate Wickersham of Alaska against Attorney General Wickersham came to naught in this session, but doubtless will come up in some form next session. Bills were introduced providing for a coal land leasing system.

One of the investigations which attracted national attention because of its rather startling and sensational disclosures was the Day portrait voucher investigation by the house committee on expenditures in the state department. As a result of its findings the committee recommended the dismissal from the service of William H. Michael, former chief clerk of the state department, now American consul general at Calcutta, and of Thomas Morrison, disbursing clerk of the department, but finally the whole matter was referred to President Taft for such action as he thought proper.

Bryan's Attack on Underwood.

Proceedings in the house under caucus rule, led by Mr. Underwood, precipitated a sharp controversy between Mr. Underwood and William Jennings Bryan. Mr. Bryan was aroused because of the failure of the house caucus to include in its tariff program at first the revision of the iron and steel schedule. He attacked Mr. Underwood on this ground, but the latter received an overwhelming vote of confidence when the matter was made an issue in the house. During the controversy the ways and means committee was at work on an iron and steel revision plan, but it remained for the senate to act on this schedule. With the acquiescence of house leaders the senate attached an iron and steel schedule to the cotton bill.

The house concurred in this amendment.

When the special session convened on April 4 the house was organized by the Democratic ways and means committee, and this body made the committee assignments. The new system eliminated what was known for many years as the czarism of the speaker. The committee also directed the deliberations of the Democratic caucus and framed the legislative program of the session.

In the senate, with many of the old leaders missing, a remarkable alliance was formed between the Democrats and insurgent Republicans, led by La Follette, Cummins and Bristow. After the first few weeks of the session it worked harmoniously until the closing week, when occurred one of the most spectacular legislative upsets in many years. The severance of the coalition came on consideration of the cotton bill. When Senator Cummins withdrew an amendment to attach iron and steel revision to the cotton bill the Democrats seized on it as their own and were able to pass it when regular Republicans refrained from voting or absented themselves from the chamber.

One of the gratifying features of the session is that partisanship has been little in evidence. On Canadian reciprocity the Democrats supported almost to a man, and on the tariff revision bills the progressive Republicans and Democrats worked together. While the last of laws passed was not long, the extra session laid the groundwork for important work in the regular session.

Yet, while there was little partisan politics of the old variety in the session, there was presidential politics in almost every move made. Engaged in this game were three groups, the Democrats, the progressive Republicans and the administration. It is too early yet to foretell which one of these elements had the best of it. That will not be entirely clear until the regular session has completed its work. The one point made clear by the extra session is that party lines as they have existed in the past have been readjusted, or, rather, are still in process of readjustment. To students this is the most important feature of the session, and no review of the bills actually passed Canadian reciprocity still remains to be ratified by Canada, the statehood bill will probably result in the admission of Arizona and New Mexico in time to take part in the election next year, the campaign publicity bill will inevitably result in less money being spent in congressional and senatorial elections, and the reapportionment bill will make of the house a body of 433 members, or 435 after the admission of the two new states. The size of the electoral college and of the representation to both national conventions will be correspondingly enlarged.

Examiner's Report Shows No Crookedness

State Examiner Harvey B. Sage, who has been examining the books in the sheriff's office at Chillicothe, looking for irregularities alleged to be in existence, has filed his report, saying that outside of many clerical errors, the books of the office are all right, and vindicates the sheriff of Ross.

The report is very gratifying to the sheriff's friends, and is proof that he has been conducting the office on the square.

Two Rigs in Smash Up Collide on Columbus Pike

While driving homeward from this city last night during the rain, a rig said to be driven by a man and woman from near Waterloo, collided with a rig coming from the opposite direction, and in the mix-up that followed, both rigs were overturned, throwing the occupants to the roadside, but not injuring either of them.

Both rigs were more or less used up, but by the liberal use of wire and string the rigs and harness were patched up enough to allow each rig to continue on its journey. The accident occurred some two miles east of this city and how one of the rigs was prevented from going over a steep embankment is hard to say. The affair ended very luckily for all concerned.

Child's Hand Crushed In Cogs of Grinder

The little son of George Williams, blacksmith at Eber, suffered a most painful injury which nearly resulted in the loss of one hand, a few days ago, when he was playing about a feed grinder, and his hand was caught in the gearing and the fingers crushed in a horrible manner. It is not believed that it will be necessary to amputate the fingers, although they may remain stiff, crippling the hand for life.

Attempts Suicide Doctors Save Him

Beverly Matson, a farmer residing a few miles from Sabina, tried to end his life by drinking a small phial of carbolic acid, a few days ago, but prompt action on the part of his family and physicians saved his life, although he is still very ill from the effects of his horrible burns.

Matson had been despondent for some time, and during a fit of anger, all uncalled for, foolishly drained the contents of the phial, standing dramatically upon a wagon in view of his family the while. Dr. O. A. West of Sabina and F. A. Peele, of Wilmington, saved the man's life.

Gooseberry Dainty

One quart of gooseberries, half a pound of brown sugar, one cupful of custard, and slice of stale sponge cake, one cupful of whipped cream, half an ounce of pistachio nuts. Top and tail the gooseberries, then wash them, put them in a stone jar with the sugar, and let them cook slowly until tender and soft. Arrange the slices of sponge cake in a glass dish, pour over the fruit, then the custard, leave until cold; whip up the cream until it will just hang on the whisk, sweeten and flavor it carefully, then heap it up roughly on the custard. Boil the pistachio nuts in boiling water for three or four minutes, shell and chop them, and sprinkle them over the cream.

EVIDENTLY NOT.

Spiced Gooseberries

To every six pounds of gooseberries add two quarts of sugar and two-thirds of a pint of vinegar. When they are scalding hot, put in the berries with teaspoonful of whole allspice and cloves mixed, a little green ginger root, in bits, and four pieces of stick cinnamon, all tied in a muslin bag. Let simmer closely covered until they are tender. Simmer the sirup and pour over the fruit, which has also been simmered, into jars and seal.

SPREADS

Washed in hard water turn grey in a very few trips to the laundry.

We wash them in soft water and will keep them looking as white and soft as when new.

The proof of the pudding is in eating.

Elder Flower Fritters

A delicacy little known except to German cooks is the fritter made from the blossoms of the elderberry bush, now in season. Make a batter of one cup of flour, one teaspoonful of sugar, a pinch of salt, and one cup of milk; beat well with a Dover beater. Each flower should have a stem an inch or two long; dip into the batter and fry in deep fat; when puffy and brown lay on a platter and sift with powdered sugar.

Value of Hot Salt Bag

Make a square bag of flannel, fill it with salt and sew the openings carefully together, then cover the bag with cotton or linen cloth. The salt will hold heat for a long time, and also has some medicinal value. It can be heated in the oven, on top of the stove or wherever most convenient. Many claim that a salt bag is better than a hot water bag, as one need not be afraid of it leaking or bursting.

Rag Carpets

Each season these quaint, old-fashioned floor coverings grow more popular. They are so attractive—come in such pleasant colorings and designs that it is small wonder women like them. And they are not expensive either, and not to be despised on account of their wearing qualities. For summer bedrooms these rag rugs and carpets are especially pleasing. With white furniture and floors they are very cool and inviting indeed.

ALWAYS OUT.
"Did your husband leave you much when he died?"
"He didn't leave me much more than when he was alive."

To Retain Color In Cotton Goods

All delicate colors of cotton goods can be laundered and still retain their color the same as when bought, if treated in the following manner: Drop one teaspoonful of turpentine into one-half gallon of cold water, wet the goods thoroughly in this, wring dry and hang in the shade. When thoroughly dry it can be laundered. The turpentine leaves no odor.

"THE GIRL AND THE TRAMP."

A great many traveling theatrical companies have fallen into the habit of refusing to use their special scenery when playing small cities where the stage accommodations are limited. But when The Carlos Inskeep attractions, producers of the laughing comedy success, "The Girl and the Tramp" turned the show over to the company manager they gave him strict orders to use all the scenery wherever the company played.

The directing manager is so exacting on this point that he has the local theater manager in each city report to the home office if instructions have been fulfilled. If this order has been violated in the smallest detail, the party responsible receives a reprimand in the way of a heavy fine that is not soon forgotten. So our local theater-goers may look forward to a full and complete scenic production when "The Girl and the Tramp" comes to the Empire Thursday, August 24th.

Tartar sauce is one of the hardest sauces to make, mainly because a recipe is so hard to get. This one was procured from an Italian chef. Leave three eggs in a bowl of water for one hour. Separate carefully and beat hard the yolks. Pour in a little cold olive oil. Beat hard. When it gets too thick add a little vinegar. Beat to a cream. Add half an onion chopped fine and a sour pickle. Season. The important point in making salad dressing is to have all materials ice cold.

CAN YOU USE 12,000 EXTRA VOTES.

Between Thursday, Aug. 24 and Thursday, Aug. 31, at 5:30 P. M., the following offer will be effective;

12,000 Extra Votes will be given for 12 New Subscriptions.

30,000 Extra Votes will be given for 25 New Subscriptions

These extra votes will be allowed besides the regular number given for each subscription, and will be given for the required number of new subscriptions to the Washington Daily Herald, the Ohio State Register, or both. Do not confine yourself to one club of 12 or 25, new subscribers, but get as many clubs as you can. The more clubs you get the higher you will run.

Subscriptions that are mailed outside of the city before the extra vote offer expires will be allowed extra votes even if they are not received at this office until next day. This will give contestants in District No. 2 an even chance with the Washington candidates to work up until the hour the offer closes.

$600 Schaff Bro. Player Piano

First Grand Prize 2nd Grand Prize

$600 Schaff Bros. Player Piano

This beautiful Player Piano will be given to the person having the largest number of votes in the Register-Herald's Great Voting Contest, and was bought of J. A. Smalley, who will shortly have the instrument on exhibition at his store-room on West Court St., next door to the T. C. DeWeese photo gallery, also in Exhibition hall at the County Fair next week.

This player piano carries with it an unlimited warranty and is the most simply constructed player on the market, one lever acting for the tempo, start, stop and rewind, making it possible for a child to operate it and play any style of music, from ragtime to the most classical.

The tone of this instrument, its volume of sound and artistic workmanship have earned for it the distinction of being one of the finest player pianos ever brought into Fayette county. Call at Smalley's store on West Court street and examine this prize.

$265 Link & Son Piano

This piano, also made by the Schaff Bros., of Chicago, Ill., and Huntington, Ind., has no equal on the market for the price. The people making this piano have been located in Chicago since the year 1868, since which time their financial rating has been unsurpassed by any of their competitors. They were the first firm to make upright pianos in Chicago after the great fire of 1872, and a steady improvement has marked the quality of their product ever since.

This piano was purchased from J. A. Smalley and is on exhibition at the storeroom next to the DeWeese photograph gallery. The many excellent features of this instrument, combining a double veneered maple-lined mahogany case, light, perfectly balanced and sympathetic action and soft mellow tone make it one that anyone who is a lover of music would be proud to own.

DISTRICT FIRST PRIZE

$200 Bed Room Suite

In Circassian Walnut, consisting of one standard sized Dresser, one Chiffonier with five large drawers, and one Bed with the new style roll top head and foot boards.

This suite would adorn a palace. It is a prize that will stand the test of time. It will ever be a thing of beauty, fit to hand down to children and grandchildren as an heirloom of Twentieth Century art.

This prize can be seen at the store of The Fayette County Hardware Co., where it was purchased. This firm's well known reputation for square dealing is a sufficient guarantee that this beautiful prize is all that is claimed for it.

DISTRICT SECOND PRIZE

$40 HAVILAND CHINA DINNER SET

This eighty-piece genuine Haviland China Dinner Set, which was purchased of S. S. Cockerill & Son, will be awarded as the District Second Prize.

Haviland & Co., the makers of this beautiful ware, and S. S. Cockerill & Son, the local dealers, guarantee each piece in this set to be absolutely perfect in every way. Each piece bears two stamps. The green one shows that the body of the article was made by Haviland & Co., while the red stamp is a guarantee that the decorations are also a work of this wonderful factory. When examining these dishes please note that they bear both the green and red stamps.

This ware is beautifully decorated in gold, and each piece has been kept free from water so that the monogram of the owner may be put on if desired. The set consists of the following articles: 12 Dinner Plates, 12 Pie Plates, 12 B. and B. Plates, 12 Teas and Sauces, 12 Fruit Saucers, 1 meat Platter, 1 Footed Salad Dish, 1 Baker, 1 Sauce Boat, 1 Covered Sugar and 1 Creamer, forming a prize that will not only be appreciated by the winner and admired by all her friends, but that is as good as money will buy.

DISTRICT FIRST PRIZE

$125 Diamond Ring

This ring was purchased at the store of C. A. Gossard & Co., who guarantee it to be a pure and flawless stone. If C. A. Gossard & Co. added not one word of assurance, this beautiful little gem would speak for itself.

The perfect color, correct cut and proportion give it the scintillating brilliancy that comes only in the perfect stone. It is a gem no better than which adorns the hand of royalty—it is a prize that any young lady may well strive for.

To the energetic woman who wins it, this beautiful gem will be as a legacy in the bank. Its value is eternal and can never grow less. The person who wins this prize is not required to take the ring which we have selected, but CAN HAVE THE CHOICE OF ALL $125 DIAMONDS in the store of C. A. Gossard & Co.

DISTRICT SECOND PRIZE

$75.00 Diamond Ring

This stone, purchased of W. H. Hettesheimer, Jeweler, is not quite as large as the diamond offered as the District First Prize, but it is a good sized gem, perfect in color and absolutely flawless. It has a Tiffany setting, and will make a splendid prize for some worthy lady.

W. H. Hettesheimer guarantees this ring to be exactly as it is here advertised, and the person who wins it can have their CHOICE OF $75 DIAMONDS IN HETTESHEIMER'S store.

Young ladies, here is a chance to secure that coveted diamond. Perhaps you may never have the opportunity of getting another. Some person is going to be the proud possessor of this valuable prize. Why not you? It will not cost you a cent.
